Good morning.

I am 100% against this proposal and find it ridiculous it is even being considered. There is no infrastructure to support it and the absolute rural nature of the state prevents it from being financially feasible. Maine is not California and even if it was there is no way we should be modeling ourselves after the worst state in the nation when it comes to intelligent ideas. Electric vehicle sales are down nationwide because the people have figured out there are too many unsolved issues regarding them. I could write a book on all the problems that you are refusing to acknowledge. I simply state again I am against it.
