As was demonstrated during the recent stretch of cold weather, electric vehicles are not designed for our rural and cold state. I could support these vehicles be used in large municipalities, however they don't run far enough for a person from Ft. Kent to access Portland without a charge in between.

I am not interested in the government mandating what type of vehicle I can have for personal transportation. On top of that the cost of an electric vehicle is more than a gas powered car. We have many people struggling now to live, I believe this will place another burden on them.

Please do not allow this to happen!
Sincerely concerned citizen, Cheryl Hooper
