As someone who has a sustainability and criminology degree, while I agree we should work to improve emissions, I do not believe this is what is right for this state. We have many households that struggle economically already. This change will hurt those individuals the most and become an unfair tax and economic burden for those individuals. They will ultimately pay the price of these changes and be the ones who predominantly receive the fines, tickets, and burdens associated with it. I believe economic analysis must be done first to mitigate the risks associated for our struggling Mainers.

Please do not implement the California standard here.

Thank you,

Dan McLean
