Dear Folks

This ought not pass! It is a short sighted plan for Maine which is basically a rural state with a large geographic area. Mandating cars that only have short range and extreme problems with the batteries and their maintenance is a short sighted idea for Maine. Notwithstanding the very high cost of these cars and trucks. More than half the people in Maine will find themselves stranded in the woods, if this is required. I think I would buy a horse instead. Hydrogen cars will mostly be the future... not electrical. Be patient better ideas are coming. If we live that long.
