I am completely

Opposed to forcing people to buy electric cars. I believe they are not practical as they can't go very far without needing to be charged. I feel it is unsafe to have to sit and wait for a car to charge considering how dangerous this country has become. I also don't believe they are any more environmentally friendly considering how the batteries are made. If someone wants to buy an electric vehicle I have no problem with that but no one should be able to take away a persons choice between gas and electric anything.
