Maine is not California. These vehicles do not work well in our environment, we don't have the charging infrastructure. Also, many of us travel to parts of the state where electric vehicles don't make sense.

Rules essentially forcing the public into electric vehicles by forcing car dealers to sell a certain percentage of these vehicles is not the answer.

When electric cars are better than other solutions, then they'll win. Forcing this artificially with rules on dealers doesn't help the consumer.
