I am against this. This is Maine not California. There is SouthernMaine, Northern Maine and Downeast Maine I do not want the state controlling what we drive The electrical structure is not able to handle the electricity it will take No one wants the government to tell us there will be a black out and people will be stuck. The winter weather will be a huge program. And these cars will be more expensive, if the battery dies, it costs thousands of dollars to replace. Plus the lithium comes from a. Africa. China and its Children getting it. Child labor definitely not for that. There is a huge lithium deposit in USA but environmentalists don't want US to get it.You can't have it both ways. It would be nice if this government would pay attention to its citizens
So no I am not for it
