I have been collecting info relevant to this rule for several weeks, including actual experiences of career colleagues who own Teslas. One lives in NJ, and has owned his for two years or so. The other lives in the DC metro area, and he and his wife have owned two of them from the "early adopting" days.

With such short notice, I have no option but to send along the raw reference data and personal responses I have gathered. They are in the attached file.

Please advise if I can be of further help.
