I am writing to say I am against this proposed rule.

There is no factual reason at this writing to argue this rule is the absolute solution needed in our way of life to solve a problem. Until it is proven to me that without a reasonable doubt that gas cars are our demise I refuse this law or anything of the like including solar and wind energy mandates.

To approve this fear mongering is reckless, uneducated and mud thrown on the wall to puff up the chests of its supporters. I also very much resent the push to impede on my lifestyle that I have developed that is right for my family and I.

If you really want to be impactful in our lives fix the immediate issues in our state such as mental illness, housing for Maine citizens and new job growth.

If you don't have any of these issues fixed you can't even begin to afford a car let alone worry about it's emissions. Duh.
