Hello,

I am against the proposal. I do not think we need to add this burden onto our citizens. Emissions standards are already extremely high. This only adds to the expense of vehicles, and would not have a significant impact on air quality to justify the expense. It also does not address the issues of overseas manufacturing, which is significantly worse. Having a rule to have an increased percentage of manufacturing have to be say within 2000 miles of the selling point might help.

Thank you for listening,
