Common sense does not follow the rules and laws of California. Maine and California are not alike and should not be.

The weather and distance between critical points in Maine does not support current EV technology.

The system to create more EV cars and trucks through global slave labor does not support this initiative. Nor the fundamentals Maine was built on.

The cost to repair and fix EV cars does not support this initiative.

The unstable electric grid and snow covered tax exemption solar panels heating our atmosphere do not support EVs.

Although friendly to big government pockets and special interest groups this law makes no sense.

Maine does not need to be a front runner in hot topic poorly thought through laws that do not benefit Mainers.

Laws like this are unfounded and common sense agrees.
